Four schools who won at least 10 games in 2006 will play at Clemson Memorial Stadium during the 2007 season. The Tigers 12-game slate includes eight 2006 bowl teams.

The seven schools coming to Clemson in 2007 had a combined record of 60-31 this past season, an average of 8.6 wins per team. The 10-win schools include Virginia Tech (10-3), Central Michigan (10-4), Wake Forest (11-3) and Boston College (10-3).

"This will be a very challenging schedule," said Clemson Head Coach Tommy Bowden. "There will be great excitement over the summer with Florida State as the opener."

"We have eight teams on the schedule who played in bowl games last year and our conference schedule is very difficult. Outside of ourselves, there were five ACC teams last year who had five or more conference wins and we play all five, including Georgia Tech and Virginia Tech in division cross over games. It is certainly a great home schedule with four 10-win teams coming to Clemson in 2007."

"I do like the balance in the schedule in that we have six games, including four conference games, before the open date, then play six more games, four of which are in the conference. And, we won't have a quick Thursday turnaround for a road game this year like we did last season."

Central Michigan and Wake Forest were champions of the MAC and ACC, respectively, and will both play at Clemson this year. Louisiana-Monroe and Furman, a Division I-AA playoff team in 2006, also will come to Clemson in 2007. It will be Clemson's first meeting against Louisiana-Monroe and Central Michigan.

Clemson will open the season with three consecutive home games for the first time since 2003 and for just the eighth time since 1923. Clemson has advanced to a bowl game each season it has opened the year with three consecutive home games since it began going to bowl games in 1939.

The Tigers open the season against perennial ACC power Florida State on Labor Day evening in a game that will be televised by ESPN at 8:00 PM. It will be the only college football game in that time slot on the holiday. It will be just the second regular season Monday night game in Clemson history, the first since the Tigers played at Georgia to open the 1982 season.

This will mark just the 12th time in history that Clemson has opened a season against an ACC team, the first time since 2004 when Clemson started the schedule with an overtime victory against Wake Forest. Clemson is 8-2-1 in season openers against ACC competition with the only two losses coming against Maryland at home in 1977, and at North Carolina in 1996.

Clemson will then play host to Louisiana-Monroe just five days later. Furman will be the third home game within the first 15 days of September. It will be the Paladins first trip to Clemson since 2003.

The Tigers will be on the road for the last two Saturdays in September, traveling to NC State on September 22 and to Georgia Tech on September 29. Clemson has won its last three games against NC State, but has lost its last two games against new Wolfpack Coach Tom O'Brien, who had been at Boston College prior to coming to NC State. Clemson and Georgia Tech have had a strong rivalry in recent years, splitting the last eight games, but the Tigers won last year, 31-7.

Virginia Tech will make its first appearance at Clemson since 1998 when the Hokies come to Death Valley on October 6. Virginia Tech has won each of the last four meetings between the two schools and the Tigers have not beaten Frank Beamer's team since 1989.

Clemson has an open date on October 13, giving the Tigers a schedule with six games prior to the open date and six games after.

Central Michigan, who replaced Temple on this year's schedule, will be at Clemson on October 20, and it will be Homecoming at Clemson that weekend. Clemson will make its first road trip in a month when the Tigers play at Maryland on October 27. The two teams have played three consecutive games decided by a score in the last three minutes. The Tigers travel to Duke for their final ACC road game on November 3.

Clemson will play host to Wake Forest and Boston College in its final two ACC games on November 10 and November 17, respectively. Clemson defeated the eventual ACC Champion Demon Deacons last year, 27-17. It will be Wake Forest's first trip to Clemson since 2004 as the Tigers played in Winston-Salem each of the last two seasons. Boston College has defeated Clemson in overtime each of the last two years.

Clemson concludes the 2007 schedule at South Carolina on November 24, the Saturday after Thanksgiving. Clemson has won eight of the last 10 meetings in the rivalry, but South Carolina was victorious at Clemson last year, 31-28.

Clemson will play one game on a Monday and 11 games on Saturdays this year. It is the first time Clemson has not had a Thursday night game since 2001. Clemson will not face ACC teams Miami (FL), North Carolina and Virginia this season.

Season Outlook

Overview

Clemson has 50 lettermen returning for 2007, but it is a young group of Tigers. In fact, it is one of the more unusual roster configurations of Clemson talent in many years because only eight scholarship student-athletes are seniors. Only one season in the last 30 (1985 with seven) has Clemson entered a season with fewer scholarship seniors on the roster.

Talented youth will be the watchwords for Tommy Bowden's ninth Clemson team. It will be challenged to meet a level of consistency that has not been seen at Clemson in many years. In the competitive ACC, Clemson, Boston College, and Virginia Tech are the only schools to win at least eight games each of the last two years, and it is the first time Clemson has done it since 1990-91.

Bowden's Tigers have also won at least four conference games each of the last eight years, something only Georgia Tech has matched among ACC schools. In 2006, he became the first coach in Clemson history to post seven straight winning seasons.

Clemson is coming off an 8-5 season that included a pair of wins over top-15 teams and a #10 national ranking eight games into the season. The Tigers were in the top 16 of the final national stats in scoring defense, scoring offense, total offense, and total defense, joining Ohio State as the only team in the country who could make that claim. Clemson was also in the top 15 in the nation in yards per play on offense and yards per play on defense, joining Louisiana State as the only school in the nation to do that.

Clemson returns just four starters on offense in 2007, but 24 lettermen are back from a unit that was in the top 15 in the nation in rushing offense, scoring offense, and total offense. In fact Clemson led the ACC in all three categories in the same year for the first time in 15 seasons.

Two of those 24 returning lettermen on offense comprise one of the top backfield combinations in the nation in James Davis and C.J. Spiller. "Thunder & Lightning" combined for 2,125 yards and 27 rushing touchdowns last season, the second-best running back combination in the nation, in terms of rushing yards. There are also explosive players returning in wide receiver Jacoby Ford, an All-American on the Clemson track team with speed under 4.3 in the 40, and veterans Aaron Kelly and Tyler Grisham, who combined for 55 catches playing alongside graduated two-time All-ACC wideout Chansi Stuckey.

Clemson must find a quarterback who will get the Tigers in the correct play and manage the offense. Will Proctor was a one-year starter who had a solid 2006 season, finishing second in the ACC in passing efficiency. He managed the Tiger offense to 32.7 points per game, the third-best scoring average in school history. The balanced attack had over 2,500 yards rushing and over 2,500 yards passing, just the second team in school history to do that.

The defense has seven returning starters and 25 returning lettermen, including each of the top-three tacklers and eight of the top 11 from a defense that was in the top 16 in the nation in scoring defense, rushing defense, and total defense. Senior linebacker Nick Watkins had 116 stops last year to finish among the ACC leaders, while safety Chris Clemons added 102 as an active sophomore. Michael Hamlin, a two-year starter at safety entering his junior year, had 64 tackles last year despite missing three games, and Phillip Merling, a talented defensive end who had 10 tackles for loss, and Dorell Scott (54 tackles) are also back to lead the Tiger defense.

James Davis helped the Tigers rank fifth in the nation in rushing last season.

According to Bowden, the Tigers have three areas that will be of particular interest to the coaching staff during the offseason as the Tigers prepare for a challenging schedule that begins on Labor Day evening (September 3) at home against Florida State.

"Offensively, we certainly must determine a starting quarterback and there are opportunities in the offensive line for some new players," said Bowden. "I have not entered a preseason with such inexperience at quarterback since I have been a head coach. But, that doesn't mean we don't have talent at the position. We will have four quarterbacks in the mix in spring practice. Cullen Harper will be the #1 quarterback when we start, and there will be a pecking order, but it will be a very competitive spring.

"We also must replace four starters on the offensive line, but again we have some talented players back. Barry Richardson is a First-Team All-ACC tackle who will be a candidate for several national honors. We have players returning who saw significant playing time last year, because we had many games in hand in the second half, so I don't think we are as bad off from an experience standpoint in the offensive line as it might look on paper."

On defense, Bowden must concentrate on finding replacements for 2006 starters Duane Coleman and C.J. Gaddis. Coleman was a senior leader who was fourth on the team in tackles last year, while Gaddis turned professional a year early.

"The cornerback position is important in any defensive plan because they are the last line of defense," explained Bowden. "We had success on defense last year, especially in the first eight games of the season. But, we have some returning players who showed their abilities in key roles last year. Chris Chancellor started four games and Crezdon Butler saw significant playing time during his freshman season when he was a co-leader on the team in takeaways."

Of course, the Tigers also must replace Gaines Adams, the leader of the Clemson defense who was a first-team unanimous All-American. "Gaines will be difficult to replace," Bowden admitted. "He really has to be regarded as one of the all-time greats in our program's history. We will have to find someone who can pressure the quarterback and make the big plays like he did so often."

Offense

Clemson returns Barry Richardson, a First-Team All-ACC offensive tackle, and one of the top running back combinations in the nation in Davis and Spiller. Davis was a First-Team All-ACC selection, while Spiller was a Second-Team All-ACC pick and first-team freshman All-American by many services, including The Sporting News and Rivals.com.

Davis led the team in rushing with 1,187 yards and a 5.8 average. His 17 rushing touchdowns tied for the ACC lead and tied the Clemson single-season record for rushing scores in a season. The native of Atlanta, GA had a career-high 216 rushing yards and two touchdowns in the win over #13 Georgia Tech at midseason. Davis scored two touchdowns in the win at #9 Florida State, including the game-winner with eight seconds left.

Spiller gained 938 yards rushing and a team-best 1,415 all-purpose yards. He was third in the nation in rushing among freshmen, but his 7.3-yards-per-carry figure was fourth-best in the nation among all backs regardless of class, and the best by an ACC player since Warrick Dunn had a 7.5-yard average for Florida State in 1995.

Spiller contributed 12 total touchdowns, including 10 rushing. The native of Lake Butler, FL actually led the team in 100-yard rushing games with five, including a 154-yard performance against N.C. State and a 155-yard game against South Carolina to end the regular season.

Davis is more of the inside power runner ("Thunder"), while Spiller is the quick-strike performer ("Lightning"). They showed their abilities in the ESPN Saturday Night primetime win over the Yellow Jackets in October when they became the first running-back duo in Tiger history to have a 200-yard game (Davis) and a 100-yard game (Spiller) in the same game. Their 332 combined yards were the second-highest, single-game total in school history.

Davis is a consistent performer who had 32 runs of 10 yards or more in 2006. Spiller was the breakaway threat who also had 19 receptions for 210 yards and two scores. Spiller finished the year with six touchdown plays of 50 yards or more in 2006, a Clemson single-season record and already tied for the career mark. Ray Ray McElrathbey and Paul Macko are two other returning lettermen in the running back mix.

Clemson was fifth in the country in rushing last year with an average of 218 yards per contest. Obviously, the talent of Davis and Spiller had a lot to do with it, but there was also outstanding blocking that created the holes. The Tigers must replace Third-Team Associated Press All-American guard Nathan Bennett and Second-Team All-ACC center Dustin Fry. Roman Fry, who was on his way to an All-America season before suffering a season-ending torn ACL against Georgia Tech, and steady starting offensive tackle Marion Dukes, also must be replaced.

Clemson returns just one starter on the offensive line, but two other players are back who have had starting experience.

Richardson is the top returning offensive lineman and is certainly one of the top tackles in the nation. An Outland Trophy and Lombardi Award candidate for 2007, Richardson graduated from high school a year early, so the three-year starter is just over 20 years of age, a fact that will make him particularly attractive to NFL teams in the spring of 2008. Richardson has started 32 consecutive games at left tackle. He was a big reason Clemson was fifth in the nation in fewest sacks allowed in 2006.

The native of Mount Pleasant, SC was the first Clemson underclassman offensive lineman to earn All-ACC honors since Jim Bundren did it 10 years ago. He finished last year with 75 knockdown blocks, second-most on the team, and he has 141 entering his final season. He allowed just two sacks in 2006 as well.

Chris McDuffie is not considered a returning starter, but he did start five of the 13 games in 2006 and played 340 snaps, 27 more than Roman Fry, who started the first eight games. McDuffie took over for Roman Fry when he suffered a season-ending torn ACL on the third play of the Georgia Tech game. He came on to block very well in that outstanding Clemson performance and over the remainder of the season. McDuffie finished the season with 50 knockdown blocks, including 37 over the last five games, second to Bennett over that span.

Brandon Pilgrim is a top candidate to join McDuffie as a starting guard. A fifth-year senior who has experience at guard and tackle, Pilgrim played 204 snaps last year, second among non-starters. He has starting experience over his career and had at least a 75-percent film grade over his last six games in 2006.

Christian Capote could join Richardson as a starting tackle. Capote has been a reliable backup the last three years. He averaged 13 plays per game last year as a reserve behind Marion Dukes and had at least one knockdown block in 12 of the 13 games. He had four knockdown blocks in 16 snaps in the win over #13 Georgia Tech as well.

The center position is up for grabs between Barry Humphries and Bobby Hutchinson. This is the least-experienced area of the offensive line, as Dustin Fry led the team in total snaps each of the last two seasons. Humphries played 84 snaps last year and had an impressive 16.5 knockdowns, while Hutchinson played 37 snaps and had six knockdowns.

There are many other young offensive linemen who will be in the mix this year. Thomas Austin is a talented red-shirt sophomore who is capable of playing guard and center. Cory Lambert was a high school All-American out of Greenville High three years ago who is ready to challenge for a starting assignment.

Jamarcus Grant is a 6'5", 320-pound guard who was slowed by a broken foot last year, but showed flashes of his ability by the end of the season. Chris Hairston and Jamal Medlin are red-shirt sophomores who are anxious to see their first career action. Landon Walker is a freshman tackle who entered Clemson in January.

Clemson's top returning wideout is Aaron Kelly, a 6'5" junior. The native of Atlanta, GA had 30 catches last year and has 77 for his career entering 2007. He had three scoring catches and 355 yards on those 30 receptions last year. Grisham had 25 receptions for 264 yards and three touchdowns in 2006 as a sophomore. He will be looked upon to take up the slack left by Stuckey, who left Clemson seventh in school history in career receptions. Grisham had his best game as a Tiger in the Music City Bowl with five catches for 49 yards and a touchdown.

Another returning wide receiver who has break-away speed is Ford. The ACC Champion and All-American in the 60m during the 2007 indoor track season, the sophomore will be looked upon to stretch opposing defenses like no other Tiger wideout in the past. He had 15 receptions for 187 yards last year, including a 76-yard touchdown catch against South Carolina in the regular-season finale.

Rendrick Taylor is a strong 6'2" wideout who will be looking to have his first healthy season as a Tiger. He has suffered arm injuries his first two years that have allowed him to play only 15 of 24 possible games. He had 12 catches for 152 yards last year when healthy.

Clemson has some outstanding freshmen wideouts joining the program, including Xavier Dye, who entered the program in January. Senior La'Donte Harris has also played in many big games, and he will be a factor along with red-shirt freshman Jeff Ogren and returning letterman Nelson Faerber.

The tight end position is very important in Rob Spence's intricate offense. Thomas Hunter, a graduate in 2006, had 16 receptions for 305 yards. The yardage total was the most by a Tiger tight end since Bennie Cunningham's senior year (1975). Akeem Robinson, Michael Palmer, and Durrell Barry are back to lead this position.

Robinson did not have a reception last year, but he is a returning starter thanks to his outstanding blocking. Palmer caught five passes as a first-year freshman and Barry caught a 32-yard touchdown pass in the Music City Bowl. Freshman Brian Linthicum entered Clemson in January of 2007 and also will get plenty of chances at tight end.

For the first time since Bowden became head coach in 1999, the Tigers enter the spring with a question mark at quarterback. Bowden has always had an experienced player returning at the signal-caller position dating to his first year when Brandon Streeter was the returning starter and Woodrow Dantzler was the backup. They both made significant contributions that year, and Dantzler later went on to an All-ACC and NFL career.

Bowden then had an experienced Willie Simmons, Charlie Whitehurst, and Proctor to follow. But this season, his four quarterbacks on the depth chart have played just a combined 91 snaps and thrown only 23 career passes.

Harper is at the top of the depth chart entering spring practice. The 6'2" quarterback from Alpharetta, GA whose father played on Georgia's 1980 National Championship team completed 14-20 passes last year for 155 yards and two scores. Those are impressive numbers, as is his 168.1 pass efficiency rating. But, all of his action came in reserve duty in routes against Florida Atlantic, North Carolina, Louisiana Tech, and Temple.

Tribble Reese and Michael Wade are also in the picture. Reese was the third-team quarterback last year who appeared in two games, while Wade, a 4.0 GPA student, red-shirted the 2006 season. He was named the scout team player-of-the-year on offense for 2006.

Willy Korn is fourth on the depth chart entering the spring. A Parade All-American at nearby James F. Byrnes High School in 2006, Korn entered Clemson in January and will compete during spring practice. He is the most-highly decorated Tiger quarterback signee since Steve Fuller, who was also a native of the Spartanburg, SC area. Korn threw for 10,716 yards and 125 touchdowns in his high school career. The touchdown total is eighth-highest in high school football history, including the best for a three-year starter.

Defense

Clemson returns 25 lettermen, including seven starters, from a 2006 defense that was in the top 20 in the nation in total defense (13th at 280.8 yards per game), scoring defense (16th at 16.2 points per game), tackles for loss (16th at 7.1 per game), pass efficiency defense (17th with 105.4 a rating), and rushing defense (18th at 103.1 yards per game).

While eight of the top 11 tacklers return, one big piece of the defensive puzzle is missing, as Adams (DE) has moved on to the NFL. Adams was a unanimous first-team All-American in 2006, just the second football player in school history (Terry Kinard in 1982 is the other) to be a unanimous selection. He was named the ACC Defensive Player-of-the-Year and was a finalist for the Bronko Nagurski Award.

Adams had 62 tackles in 2006, including 12.5 sacks, third-most in the nation. He had a special talent for taking over a game at the appropriate time, as he did in Clemson's win at Wake Forest on October 7 when his 66-yard fumble return changed the course of the game in Clemson's 27-17 victory over the eventual ACC champion.

Bowden and Defensive Coordinator Vic Koenning must also replace starting cornerbacks Duane Coleman (81 tackles) and C.J. Gaddis (33 tackles, including 8.5 for loss) along with starting outside linebacker Maurice Nelson (71 tackles).

"We should be solid on defense," said Bowden. "We have finished in the top 25 in the nation in the four major defensive categories each of the last two years, something we haven't done here in consecutive years since 1989-90. That is a credit to Vic Koenning and the job he has done."

The strength of the team could be at linebacker, where three starters return. How is that possible with the loss of Nelson? Tramaine Billie looks to return at linebacker after starting in 2004 and 2005. He suffered a season-ending broken ankle in August last year. Had Clemson had Billie and Anthony Waters, a preseason All-American who suffered a torn ACL in the first game of the year, Clemson's defensive rankings, and win total, could have been much higher.

Billie started six games in 2004 and had 62 stops, then had 93 tackles in 2005 when he started all 12 games. He was in the top five on the team in tackles in both seasons. When he is in the lineup, Clemson has done well, as evidenced by the Tigers, 13-5 record in games he has started over his two years in the lineup. His top game might have come in the 2005 regular-season finale when he had a team-best 12 stops at #19 South Carolina in the Tigers, 13-9 win.

Watkins is the top returning tackler from last year off his 116 total tackles in 13 games. He had seven tackles for loss and a team-tying-high three interceptions. The senior from New Orleans, LA had five double-digit tackle games last year, including three in a row to end the regular season. Watkins enters his final season with 35 career games and 24 starts under his belt, and he has registered a team-best 268 tackles, including 18 behind the line of scrimmage.

A third returning starter at linebacker is Antonio Clay, a junior from Jeffersonville, GA who has 120 career tackles. Clay had 13 tackles in the victory over #13 Georgia Tech last year and was named ACC Defensive Lineman-of-the-Week. Three of those tackles were tackles for loss, and he completed the season with 93 stops, including 9.5 tackles for loss. Clay is sitting out the spring semester for personal reasons, but he is expected to return in the summer.

There are five returning lettermen that will also compete for playing time at any of the three linebacker spots in 2007. Cortney Vincent and Josh Miller are the most experienced linebackers, as the juniors have played in nearly every game the last two seasons. Vincent has played in 23 games with 211 snaps, while Miller has played 194 snaps in 24 games on two teams that have finished the season in the top 16 in the nation in scoring defense. Vincent had 20 tackles last season and started in the win over N.C. State, while Miller had 25 tackles.

Kavell Conner is a returning letterman at linebacker. The weakside linebacker had 31 stops last year, most among reserve linebackers in 2006. Jeremy Campbell and Kevin Alexander are a pair of sophomores who look to show great improvement in their respective second seasons in the program. Alexander had 16 tackles while playing in all 13 games last year, while Campbell had 15 stops in 106 snaps in 10 games. Both are precocious linebackers who will benefit by additional snaps and drills during spring practice.

The defensive line returns three starters and nine total lettermen in 2007. It might be the deepest area of the team. Leading the way are returning starters Jock McKissic, Merling, and Dorell Scott, while Rashaad Jackson is an experienced veteran who has just one career start. However, he has played in 24 games and nearly 600 snaps over the last two seasons. He is actually first on the depth chart heading into spring practice.

Merling is a junior who is a rising star of the defense. Playing in Adams' shadow as Clemson's "other defensive end," Merling finished the year with 46 tackles, including 10 tackles for loss and three sacks to go with 20 quarterback pressures. He was ninth on the team in tackles last year, but he finished the season strong with at least five tackles in each of the last five games.

Ricky Sapp, Jamie Cumbie, and Kwam Williams will also be factors at defensive end and will compete to take over Adams' starting position. Sapp was Adams' backup on the depth chart last year, and the first-year freshman showed he was a good learner, as he registered four sacks to tie William Perry's (1981) first-year freshman school record. He finished the year with six tackles for loss and 20 total tackles in 197 plays.

Cumbie, Sapp's classmate at defensive end, has outstanding size and range. He had eight tackles in 104 plays last year. Another year in the weightroom will improve his overall game. Williams is a fifth-year senior who has played well in limited action and has 13 tackles in 19 career games.

Scott and McKissic are returning starters at defensive tackle. Scott was second to Adams in tackles among defensive linemen with 54 stops last season, including a career-high nine tackles against Kentucky in the Music City Bowl. The native of Columbia, SC was one of the most improved defensive linemen in the ACC after moving his tackle total from 18 in 2005 to 54 in 2006.

McKissic started 12 of Clemson's 13 games last year and had 18 tackles as one of Clemson's primary inside run-stoppers. He showed his all-around athletic ability when he returned an interception 82 yards for a touchdown in the season-fine against South Carolina, the longest interception return in Tiger history by a defensive lineman.

Jackson has had a productive first two years at Clemson, recording 65 tackles in 25 games. He is an active player who was also a reason Clemson opponents averaged just over 100 yards per game on the ground last year. Antwon Murchison and Elmore Gabriel are two more experienced players, but they are still young defensive tackles who will compete for playing time in 2006.

Clemson returns Hamlin and Clemons as starting safeties, but the Tigers will be looking for two new starters at cornerback. Hamlin is one of the most-respected safeties in the ACC because of his abilities on pass coverage and run-support. He had 64 tackles last year to finish sixth on the team even though he missed three games due to a broken foot suffered on a controversial play in the overtime loss at Boston College. He suffered an injury to the other foot in the winter of 2007, and his play will be limited during spring practice. However, he is expected to be healthy by August.

Hamlin is a junior with considerable experience at both safety positions, but he will likely be the CAT safety this year. He has played 21 games, including 16 as a starter, and has already been on the field for 1,068 snaps as a safety. He has 119 career tackles and four interceptions, including a 74-yard touchdown return in last year's season-opener. He finished the year strong with 38 tackles over the last four games, including a career-high 15 tackles against Kentucky in the Music City Bowl.

Clemons is also a solid run-stopper at free safety, where he had 102 tackles last year, second-most on the team. The Arcadia, FL native had three consecutive double-digit tackle games to end the regular season, including a career-high 17 stops in the win over N.C. State. While he had just one interception, he led the team in passes defended (9).

Sadat Chambers, Darius Gaither, and DeAndre McDaniel are also significantly involved in the safety situation. Chambers is a sophomore who had 10 tackles in 117 snaps last year as a reserve, while Gaither and McDaniel are yet to play in a game. Gaither red-shirted last season, while McDaniel is a freshman who entered Clemson in January after playing at a prep school during the 2006 season.

While the most interesting area of the Tiger offense during the offseason will be quarterback, the focal point of the defense will be cornerback. Chancellor and Butler are the leaders entering the offseason to move into starting positions at the important cornerback positions.

Neither player is devoid of experience, as Chancellor started four games in the secondary and played 288 snaps last year, while Butler was a first-team freshman All-ACC selection last year when he played 248 snaps in 13 games. Chancellor had 38 tackles to match the number on his back and started the Kentucky game in the Music City Bowl. Butler tied for the team-lead in interceptions with three, including two in the win over Louisiana Tech and one in the win over #13 Georgia Tech.

Also entering into the cornerback competition are Haydrian Lewis and red-shirt freshman Byron Maxwell. Lewis started the season-opener against Florida Atlantic in 2006 when Gaddis was not available and had three tackles in 49 plays in Clemson's 54-6 victory. Maxwell sat out last year, his freshman year, with a torn ACL, but he is healthy for this season.

Special Teams

Clemson will have two new kickers in 2006. Cole Chason was Clemson's starting punter the last four years and had more punts than any other player in school history. He averaged 41.3 yards per punt last year, including a 38.6-yard net average that was the highest figure by a Tiger in 11 years. He was a main reason Clemson improved from 104th to 32nd in net punting from 2005 to 2006.

Michael Hamlin, who will be a junior for the 2007 season, has already played 1,068 snaps in his career.

Jad Dean finished his Tiger career fifth in school history in career field goals, while he was third in kick scoring. He made 15-22 field goals last year when he scored 91 points.

Richard Jackson is a red-shirt freshman ready to take over at least one of the duties. He sat out last year after earning Parade All-American accolades in 2005 at nearby Riverside High School. He received national acclaim by making a state record 64-yard field goal in high school. He is the first Parade All-America kicker at Clemson since Chris Gardocki. Junior Jimmy Maners punted just once in 2006, but he will compete with Jackson for the starting punter position.

Mark Buchholz is already a starter on a top-20 team at Clemson. Buchholz is a starting midfielder for Trevor Adair's Clemson soccer team, but he could be doing double-duty next fall. He was an all-state kicker at Chattahoochee (GA) High School, the same school that sent Charlie Whitehurst to Clemson. He will work with the Tigers this spring.

In terms of the return game, they are in outstanding hands with Ford and Spiller returning. Ford was the only college football player in 2006 to have a 90-yard punt return and a 90-yard kickoff return for touchdowns. Spiller also had experience in both areas last year and is a breakaway threat at any time.

One of the areas Clemson needs to improve is kickoff-return coverage. Clemson finished last in the ACC in that category last year, allowing 24 yards per return and an average start at the 30-yard line. The addition of Andre Powell to the coaching staff hopefully will shore up that area. He handled that duty at North Carolina in 2006, and the Tar Heels led the ACC in kickoff-return coverage.

Five Tigers Named First-team All-ACC

Stuckey Named for Second Consecutive Year

Chansi Stuckey was named first-team All-ACC for the second consecutive year, highlighting the selection of five Clemson players to the first-team all-conference squad for 2006. It marked the first time since 2000 that Clemson had five first-team selections.

Stuckey was one of four Tigers on the first-team. The graduate from Warner Robins, GA was joined on the first team by sophomore running back James Davis, senior offensive guard Nathan Bennett and junior offensive tackle Barry Richardson. Gaines Adams was a first-team selection at defensive end, Clemson's only first or second-team selection on the defensive side of the ball.

Senior center Dustin Fry and freshman running back C.J. Spiller were both named to the second-team, while tight end Thomas Hunter and cornerback Duane Coleman were honorable mention selections.

Clemson tied Wake Forest for the most overall first-team selections with five. Clemson, Georgia Tech and Virginia Tech all had seven first or second-team selections to tie for he most in the conference. The Tigers had four first-team selections on offense, two more than any other ACC team and the most first-team selections on offense for a Clemson team since 1978 when Clemson had five.

As far as the offensive line is concerned, this marked the first time since 1996 that Clemson had three first or second-team offensive linemen.

Stuckey was named to the first-team for the second consecutive year, the first Clemson wide receiver named first-team All-ACC in two different seasons since Perry Tuttle in 1980-81. Stuckey missed three games with a broken foot, but finished the regular season with an average of five receptions per game, first in the conference. He has 45 catches overall for 607 yards and three touchdowns. He was second in the ACC in yards per game to Georgia Tech's Calvin Johnson.

Davis was named first team All-ACC running back after he was named second team last season. Davis rushed for 1134 yards and 17 touchdowns during the regular season. The 1187 rushing yards rank sixth best in Clemson history for a single season. He had 216 yards rushing in Clemson's victory over 13th ranked Georgia Tech and was named National Offensive Player of the Week by the Walter Camp Foundation.

Bennett and Richardson were keys to Clemson's offensive line, a major reason Clemson leads the ACC in total offense for the first time since 1991 and leads the league in scoring offense for the first time since 1988. Bennett finished the regular season with a team best 97 knockdown blocks, while Richardson had 72.5. Bennett was named ACC Offensive Lineman of the Week for his performance against Georgia Tech. Richardson is the first Clemson underclassman offensive lineman to make first-team All-ACC since Jim Bundren in 1996.

Adams led the ACC in sacks from his defensive end position and he ranked 3rd in the nation in that category. The senior from Greenwood, SC had 12.5 sacks for the season, tied for second best in Clemson history and his 28 career sacks also tied Michael Dean Perry's record.

Spiller, in making second-team All-ACC as a freshman, ranked fourth in the ACC in rushing with 76.2 yards per game in the regular season. He finished the regular season with consecutive 150-yard rushing performances. He had a Clemson freshman record five 100-yard rushing games and scored 12 total touchdowns, more than any other freshman in Clemson history. His 7.37 yards per carry figure was the best by any ACC running back since Warrick Dunn of Florida State had a 7.5 average in 1995.

Fry has started every game the last two years, and played more snaps than any other Clemson player on offense or defense this season. He had 68.5 knockdown blocks for the regular season and was a major reason the Tigers rank fifth in the nation in rushing offense with an ACC best 225 yards per game.

Clemson Fifth Among Top 25 Teams in Graduation Rate

Clemson's football graduation rate for student-athletes who entered Clemson between 1996-99 ranks fifth in the nation among Associated Press Top 25 teams according to data released by the NCAA on September 27. The Tigers had a four-year rate of 77 percent, 12 points ahead of the national average for football and equal to the national average for all student-athletes.

Notre Dame had the top graduation rate for the period examined among top 25 schools with a 95 percent mark, while Nebraska was second at 88 percent. Florida was third at 80 percent and TCU was fourth at 78 percent. Clemson's 77 percent rate was fourth among ACC school trailing only Boston College, Duke and Wake Forest.

Hunter, Pearson Named Academic All-ACC

Clemson tight end Thomas Hunter and fullback Alex Pearson have been named to the 2006 All-ACC Academic team. Candidates for the team must have a career GPA of at least 3.0 and earn at least a 3.0 in the fall semester. Both players are coached by Clemson assistant Billy Napier.

Hunter was named to the President's List (4.0) for the fall semester and graduated in December with a degree in biological sciences. Pearson, a sophomore athletically, but a junior academically majoring in marketing, made the Dean's List for the fall semester.

On the field, Hunter had 16 receptions for 305 yards. The native of Marion, SC who attended the Pee Dee Academy, started 11 of the 13 games, missing two contests due to injury, including the Music City Bowl game against Kentucky. His 19.1 yards per reception average was the best on the Clemson team and his 305 receiving yards were the most by a Clemson tight end since 1975 when All-American Bennie Cunningham had 312.

Pearson, a native of Greenville and a graduate of Greenville High School, played in all 13 games, two as a starter in 2006. He had four pass receptions for 27 yards and scored two touchdowns, scoring receptions against Louisiana Tech and Temple. His blocking skills were a big reason Clemson ranked fifth in the nation in rushing offense in 2006.

Clemson Played Toughest ACC Schedule

Clemson played the toughest ACC schedule in 2006. The combined record of Clemson's conference opponents when not playing against the Tigers was 33-23, one game better than Maryland's 32-24 mark. The Tigers had to play each of the Atlantic Division schools, plus had to face Georgia Tech and Virginia Tech, the top two teams in the Coastal Division.

Clemson was the only Atlantic Division team that had to play Georgia Tech and Virginia Tech and the Tigers had to do it five days apart in October. Clemson was the only ACC team in the regular season to defeat the Yellow Jackets, a game it won on October 21 at home. The Tigers lost at Virginia Tech the following Thursday night on the road, a difficult task for all ACC team this year. The road team was 0-6 in 2006 in conference games played on Thursday nights.

Clemson defeated both Wake Forest and Georgia Tech, the only ACC team to defeat the two teams who played in the ACC Championship game. Those two teams had just three league losses in the regular season and two of the three were to Clemson.

Clemson league opponents won 33 of 56 games when not playing Clemson, seven fewer than conference champion Wake Forest, whose opponents had a 26-30 record when not playing the Demon Deacons.

It is interesting to note that Virginia played the easiest conference schedule in football and men's basketball in the 2006-07 academic year.

Spiller Broke Freshman Records

Clemson freshman running back established eight Clemson records in 2006, four that were freshman records and four that were all-time Clemson records. Spiller set the Clemson record for touchdown plays of 50 yards or more with six, including his 80-yard touchdown run against South Carolina and an 82-yard pass reception against Boston College. That reception against the Eagles was the longest reception in Clemson history by a freshman and the longest reception by a running back in school history.

Spiller set the freshman touchdown record and the freshman rushing touchdown mark and his five 100-yard games led the team and are a record for a Clemson freshman. His most impressive mark might be his 1415 all-purpose running yards, a school mark for freshman and seventh best figure in Clemson history regardless of class.

C.J. Spiller records in 2006

- Most total touchdowns in a season by a freshman, 12
  - Most rushing touchdowns in a season by a freshman, 10
  - Most 100-yard rushing games in a season by a freshman, 5

  - #Longest reception by a running back, 82 yards vs. Boston College
  - #Yards per carry in season (min 600 yards), 7.3
- Also all-time Clemson record.

Tigers Averaged 6.50 yards per play

Clemson averaged 6.5 yards per play in 2006, a school record that had lasted since 1950. Frank Howard's undefeated team of 1950 had a 6.16 yards per play average.

Clemson also established a school record in terms of yards per rush with a 5.7 average, breaking the record of 5.25 set in 1950. This year Clemson had four running backs average at least 5.7 yards per rush, led by the 7.3 by C.J. Spiller.

Twice in 2006 Clemson averaged over 9 yards per play, the fourth and fifth best games in Clemson history. Clemson averaged 9.07 yards a play against Louisiana Tech and 9.6 yards per play in the win over Temple. The record is 11.18 yards per play when Clemson had 615 yards on 55 plays in 1903 against Georgia Tech. John Heisman was in his last year as Clemson head coach before leaving to go to Georgia Tech.

Clemson's rushing game was the big contributor to that high per play average against Louisiana Tech. Clemson had 41 rushes for 393 yards, an average of 9.59 yards per carry. Clemson averaged more yards per rush than it did per pass attempt in that game. Clemson averaged 7.8 yards per pass attempt in the win over Louisiana Tech.

Clemson's 9.59 yards per rush was the third best in Clemson history and the best since 1945 when Clemson averaged 10.3 yards per rush in a victory over Presbyterian.

Adams One of Seven Unanimous All-Americans in 2006

Clemson defensive end Gaines Adams was named to all five official All-America teams acknowledged by the NCAA in 2006, one of seven unanimous All-Americans this year.

Adams and defensive lineman LaMarr Woodley of Michigan were the only defensive players named to all five teams. The offensive players were Calvin Johnson of Georgia Tech, Joe Thomas of Wisconsin, Troy Smith of Ohio State and Steve Slaton of West Virginia. Baylor punter Daniel Sepulveda was also a unanimous selection.

The NCAA recognizes the All-America teams selected by the Associated Press, Football Writers Association, Football Coaches, The Sporting News and the Walter Camp Foundation in naming the consensus and unanimous All-America teams.

Adams joins Terry Kinard (defensive back, 1982) as the only unanimous All-Americans in Clemson football history. This past season, Adams had 12.5 sacks to rank third in the nation. He finished his career with 28 sacks, tying him with Michael Dean Perry for the Clemson career record. He had 62 tackles overall, including 17.5 tackles for loss and a team best 25 quarterback pressures.

Adams scored one touchdown this year on a 66-yard fumble return against Wake Forest, a play that was recognized as a finalist for the Pontiac Game Changing Play of the Year in college football.

Adams Named First-Team Associated Press All-American

Clemson defensive end Gaines Adams was named to the first-team Associated Press All-America team. Adams was one of just three ACC players named to the team, as he joined Georgia Tech wide receiver Calvin Johnson and Boston College offensive lineman Josh Beekman.

Clemson offensive guard Nathan Bennett was named a third-team AP All-American as an offensive guard.

Adams, a senior from Greenwood, SC, is the first Clemson player to make first-team Associated Press All-American since Keith Adams (no relation to Gaines) in 2000. He is the first defensive end in Clemson history to make first-team AP All-American.

Adams led the ACC and ranked third in the nation in quarterback sacks this year with 12.5, tied for the second most in a season in Clemson history. During the season he had a streak of eight consecutive games in which he recorded a sack, an all-time Clemson record. He had six pass deflections, two of which led directly to interceptions, including one that was returned 82 yards for a touchdown by teammate Jock McKissic against South Carolina.

Adams was named a finalist for the Bronko Nagurski Award (top defensive player in the nation) and the Ted Hendrick Award (top defensive end in the nation) and was a semifinalist for the Lombardi Award. He was also named the ACC Defensive Player of the Year.

Bennett, a senior from Dallas, GA, is the first Clemson offensive lineman to make an Associated Press All-America team since Jim Bundren was a third team selection in 1997. Kyle Young was an All-American on many teams in 2000 and 2001, but never made the Associated Press team.

Bennett was a major factor in Clemson leading the ACC and ranking fifth in the nation in rushing in 2006. Bennett led the team in knockdown blocks with 100 and was Clemson's highest rated offensive linemen in six of the last seven games. He was named the ACC Offensive Linemen of the Week for his 90 percent grade and 10 knockdown blocks in the Tigers 31-7 win over Georgia Tech. He was also named first-team All-ACC.

Ten Clemson Football Players Graduated in December

Unanimous first-team All-American Gaines Adams was one of 10 football players who graduated from Clemson University on December 21, 2006 at Littlejohn Coliseum.

Other members of the Clemson team who were on the 2006 Clemson squad who graduated that day were Duane Coleman, Dustin Fry, Roman Fry, Thomas Hunter, Reggie Merriweather, Will Proctor, Nic Riddle, Brent Smith and Anthony Waters.

Clemson Assistant Coach Billy Napier was named to Rivals.com's top 25 list for college football recruiters for the 2007 recruiting class.

Clemson had 13 graduates on its roster for the bowl game against Kentucky. Last summer Chansi Stuckey, Brandon Cannon and Cole Chason had already received their degrees.

"I am certainly proud of these young men," said Clemson Head Coach Tommy Bowden. "I also want to thank the staff at Vickery Hall and the support they provide for our student-athletes on a year round basis."

Adams was named a unanimous first-team All-American in 2006 as a defensive end. He is now in line to join Tye Hill and Rod Gardner as recent Tigers who were first-team All-Americans, Clemson graduates and first-round NFL draft choices. The NFL draft is in late April and Adams is ranked among the top college prospects. Last year only seven players nationwide were first-team All-Americans, first-round draft selections and college graduates. Tye Hill was one of those seven.

Clemson vs. Florida State on Labor Day Night

Clemson will open its 2007 football schedule against Florida State on Labor Day Night (September 3) in a game that will be televised nationally on ESPN. This will be the first time Clemson has played a regular season game on a Monday night since 1982 when the Tigers opened the season at Georgia in a nationally televised game on ABC.

"The Clemson-Florida State game is one of our most viewed telecasts, and eagerly anticipated match-ups each year," said Dave Brown, Vice President, ESPN programming and acquisitions. "The popularity of our Labor Day primetime window is a natural fit for this game and we look forward to showcasing the Clemson-Florida State game to a national audience in an exclusive college football window."

Kickoff for the contest will be 8:00 PM. "This will bring tremendous exposure to our program," said Head Coach Tommy Bowden. "The Clemson-Florida State game is always one of the most watched college games of the year and now it will be in a time slot on a holiday evening with no other college game broadcast at the same time."

Last year's Labor Day Night game between Florida State and Miami (FL) averaged 6,330,000 households, was the sixth most viewed regular season college football game on national television, ranked as ESPN's highest-rated college football game since 1994 with a 6.9 rating, and was the most viewed college football game in ESPN's history.

"As we saw last year when ESPN's College GameDay came to Clemson for the Georgia Tech game, this Labor Day evening game will be a great opportunity to showcase Clemson University," said Clemson Athletic Director Dr. Terry Don Phillips. "It will bring great exposure for the University as we strive to become a Top 20 national public university."

The Clemson vs. Florida State game will be the ninth meeting between Tigers Head Coach Tommy Bowden and his father, Florida State Hall of Fame Head Coach Bobby Bowden. Bobby has won five of the first eight, but Tommy has won three of the last four, including last year's game in Tallahassee, FL, a 27-20 Clemson victory on a one-yard touchdown run by James Davis with just eight seconds left.

Bowden Announces Staff Assignment changes

Clemson Head Coach Tommy Bowden announced some coaching staff titles and responsibility changes on March 10.

Tight ends coach Billy Napier will replace David Blackwell as the recruiting coordinator. Clemson had three consecutive top 20 recruiting years under Blackwell, a first for the program since the 1980s. "David did an outstanding job as recruiting coordinator and he will still be actively involved in recruiting. Billy is young and single, he lives in the office, and wanted the opportunity."

Bowden also said that offensive line coach Brad Scott would now have the title of Associate Head Coach, while wide receivers coach Dabo Swinney will have increased responsibilities and has been elevated to an Assistant Head Coach position.

Napier Ranked Among Top 25 Recruiters

Clemson tight ends coach Billy Napier was ranked among the top 25 college football recruiters in the nation according to Rivals.com for the 2007 recruiting class. Napier was one of six ACC coaches on the list.

This marks the third straight year one of Clemson's assistant coaches has been ranked as a top 25 recruiter by Rivals.com. Current Clemson wide receivers coach Dabo Swinney was listed in the top 25 in 2005 and 2006.

Four of Clemson's 22-member signee class were recruited by Napier, including three prominent players from the state of North Carolina. Rivals.com singled out defensive end Kourtnei Brown, defensive back Marcus Gilchrist and offensive tackle Landon Walker as prominent student-athletes signed by Napier.

Clemson's overall recruiting class was ranked 18th by ESPN.com, 21st by Rivals.com and 22nd by Scout.com. It marks the third straight year Clemson has been ranked in the top 21 in football recruiting by Rivals.com. Clemson is one of three ACC teams who have been ranked in the top 21 three straight years, joining Florida State and Miami (FL).

Napier, only 28 years old and one of the youngest coaches on the top 25 list by Rivals.com, coached Clemson's tight ends in his first full season as a Division I assistant. His top performer, Thomas Hunter, was an honorable mention All-ACC tight end and finished the year with 16 catches for 305 yards, a team best 19.1 yard average. His yardage total was the highest by a Clemson tight end since Bennie Cunningham had 312 in 1975, his senior year when he was named a first-team All-American.

Accomplishments of Clemson Seniors

- First senior class in ACC history to defeat Florida State three times.
- Eight wins over top 20 teams, ties Clemson record for a senior class
- Four wins over top 10 teams, ties Clemson record for a senior class. The victories were recorded over Tennessee (6th), Florida State (3rd, 9th), and Miami (FL) (10th).
- Brought Clemson to a top 10 ranking in 2006, Clemson's first top 10 ranking in six years.
- First appearance for GameDay on the Clemson campus.
- Had 26-game streak without suffering a loss over six points, longest streak by a Clemson class in 100 years.
- Had consecutive eight-win seasons as juniors and seniors, first for a Clemson class since 1991.
- 2-1 record in bowl games.
- Record of 31-18 for a .632 winning percentage, best percentage by a Clemson class since 1993

Clemson Trio Helps Aina Team to Hula Bowl Win

Former Clemson players Will Proctor, Reggie Merriweather and Sergio Gilliam made key plays to help the Aina Team (East Team) to an 18-10 victory over the Kai Team (West Team) at the 61st annual Hula Bowl in Honolulu, Hawaii. Clemson assistant coach Ron West was also on the sidelines as an assistant for the East Team.

Proctor was named the Most Valuable Player for the Aina team after connecting on 10-16 passes for 111 yards. Merriweather had a reception for 11 yards and 4-18 rushing, including the touchdown that allowed the East Team to take the lead with just 44 seconds left in the contest. Gilliam had a pass break up to save a touchdown in the first half.

The East Team trailed 10-3 with under three minutes left in the game when Proctor guided the team towards the winning score. He completed a key third-and-11 pass to Brett Smith of Tennessee for a key first down at the nine. Merriweather then carried from the nine to the one on first down, and scored a touchdown on second down.

East Coach Rich Rodriguez, a former Clemson assistant who is now the head coach at West Virginia, then called a two-point play. Proctor completed the two-point pass to Smith, who made a diving one-handed catch in the right corner of the end-zone.

The East Team then scored another touchdown on an interception return for a score with just 20 seconds left.

Clemson had seven 2006 seniors scheduled to play in all-star games. In addition to the three who played in Sunday's Hula Bowl, All-American offensive guard Nathan Bennett played for the East Team in the East-West Game. On January 27, former Tigers Dustin Fry, Chansi Stuckey and Gaines Adams were chosen for the Senior Bowl. Adams did not play in the game.

Clemson Attendance Ranked 14th in Nation in Average Attendance

Clemson averaged 81,532 fans per home football game in 2006, the second highest average in school history, the best in the ACC, and 14th best average in the nation. The rankings are according to the NCAA statistical service.

This season marked the 26th consecutive year that Clemson has been ranked in the top 20 in average home football attendance. This year's #14 ranking is the highest since the 1999 season, Tommy Bowden's first year as head coach, when Clemson ranked 13th on a per game basis. Clemson played just five home games that year.

Bowden has been the head coach during six of the top 10 home average attendance seasons in Clemson history.

Clemson's average attendance of 81,563 for seven home games this year was second only to the 1988 season when Clemson averaged 81,750 for a six-game season. This year's average was a school record for a home schedule with seven games or more.

Clemson had 570,942 attend the seven home games in 2006, also the second highest total attendance in school history and the 13th highest total in the nation. The school record for total attendance in a season is 602,526 in 1987 when Clemson had eight home games.

Miller and McGlockton Contribute $50,000 to West Zone Initiative

Former NFL All-Pro and Clemson All-ACC defensive tackle Chester McGlockton and current New York Jets defensive back Justin Miller, both contributed $50,000 to Clemson's West Zone initiative during the 2006 football season. The checks were presented during consecutive home games in November.

McGlockton was on hand to present the check to Clemson Assistant Athletic Director Jeff Davis at the November 11 game with Maryland. As a result of the contribution, the defensive line position room in the West End zone will be named after Chester McGlockton when it is completed.

Miller's mother was on hand to make the presentation at the Maryland game. Miller was obviously scheduled to play an NFL game that weekend and could not attend.

McGlockton played on three top 20 teams at Clemson who had a combined record of 29-6-1 between 1989-91. As a red-shirt freshman in 1989, McGlockton led the ACC in sacks with seven, the only Clemson freshman to lead the ACC in sacks. He was a starter on Clemson's 10-2 team of 1990 that finished with top 10 national ranking, and the 1991 team that won the ACC Championship with a 9-2-1 mark. The 1990 team led the nation in total defense, and the 1991 team led the nation in rushing defense.

A first-round draft choice of the Oakland Raiders in 1992, McGlockton played 12 seasons in the NFL in 179 career games. The 179 games played rank third among former Tigers in the NFL, and his 12 seasons are tied for third among former tigers.

Miller finished his second season with the New York Jets in 2006. A starting cornerback, he had 55 tackles on defense and was second in the NFL in kickoff returns behind Devin Hester of Chicago. He had two kickoff returns for touchdowns and was named the AFC Special Teams Player of the Month for October.

Miller's success is of no surprise to Clemson fans. During his Clemson career (2002-04) Miller averaged 30.7 yards per kickoff returns, the best average in ACC history and fourth in NCAA history. He had two kickoff returns for touchdowns against Florida State in 2004 when he set an NCAA record with 282 kickoff return yards.

Miller was a three-year starter in the secondary for the Tigers between 2002-04. He was a freshman All-American in 2002 when he had eight interceptions to tie a Clemson record. His 13 career interceptions rank third in Clemson history on a career basis. He was a second-round draft choice of the Jets in 2005 as he turned professional after his junior year.

C.J. Gaddis To Enter NFL Draft

Clemson red-shirt junior cornerback C.J. Gaddis has decided to forego his senior season of eligibility and enter the NFL draft.

Gaddis started 11 of Clemson's 13 games this season and had 33 tackles, including 8.5 tackles for loss. He had two interceptions, including one against South Carolina in the regular season finale. Gaddis had five passes defended and 25 individual tackles.

His top game came at Wake Forest when he had a season high six tackles, including four tackles for loss. The four tackles for loss were a Clemson record for a Tiger defensive back. He also had an interception on Wake Forest's final drive that clinched Clemson's 27-17 win over the eventual ACC Champions. Gaddis was a big reason Clemson ranked in the top 20 this season in total defense, pass efficiency defense and scoring defense.

Gaddis had 59 tackles as a safety in 2005 when he helped the Tigers to an 8-4 season and a top 25 finish in the final polls. He had three consecutive double figure tackle games early in that season against Maryland, Miami (FL) and Boston College. Gaddis finished his career with 35 games played and 16 starts. He had 113 career tackles, including 13.5 tackles for loss and five interceptions. He also forced four fumbles, including two in 2006. As a sophomore in 2005 he had a streak of three consecutive games with an interception as a non-starter in wins over Duke, Florida State and South Carolina.

Head Coach Tommy Bowden

When one looks at Head Coach Tommy Bowden's résumé, the first thing that comes to mind is consistency. Bowden has completed 10 seasons as a Division I head coach, and all 10 of his teams have been bowl eligible at the conclusion of the regular season.

Each of his last seven teams have finished with a winning record. A winning season in 2006 gave him a Clemson coaching record seven consecutive winning seasons, and he became just the fifth head coach in ACC history to record seven straight winning seasons with the same program, the first time it has been done at Clemson by one coach.

Bowden has also shown consistency in terms of improvement over the course of seasons. From 2003-05, his teams won at least five of its last six games. The 2003 team won its last four games, including wins over top-10 Florida State and Tennessee to finish ranked in the top 25. The 2005 team won six of its last seven games, a first for a Tiger team since 1991.

There has also been consistency in terms of success against Clemson's in-state rival (South Carolina). The Tigers have won six of the eight meetings since Bowden became Clemson's head coach in 1999, and the 75.0-percent winning mark is the best of any Tiger head coach in history against the Gamecocks given a minimum of five games. He has an average victory margin of 10.4 points per game in the state-rivalry game, and all six wins have been recorded against future Hall of Fame Head Coaches Lou Holtz and Steve Spurrier.

In 10 seasons as a Division I head coach, Bowden has a 78-42 record, a 65-percent winning mark. In conference games, he has never had a sub-.500 record, and his overall conference record stands at 48-28 for a 63.2-percent winning mark.

In eight years at Clemson, he has a 60-38 mark and seven bowl appearances. He has 37 ACC wins as well. The only programs with more ACC wins during this time are Florida State and Georgia Tech. The 60 overall victories are third-most in Clemson history. The 29-7 victory over South Carolina in the 2004 season-finale was not only the 600th win in Clemson history, it moved Bowden ahead of Hall of Fame Coach Jess Neely into third place on Clemson's coaching victories list. Only Frank Howard and Danny Ford are ahead of Bowden.

Twice Bowden has been named ACC Coach-of-the-Year (1999,03), joining Howard, Charley Pell, and Ford as the only two-time recipients of that award in Tiger history. In January of 2006, he was given the Grant Teaff National Coach-of-the-Year Award by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Off the field, Clemson has graduated nearly 80 percent of its seniors in his eight years. Clemson's graduation success rate of 94 percent in 2005 was fourth-best among the 119 Division I-A programs. In 2003, Clemson was #11 in the nation, including second among public institutions, in the NCAA graduation-rate study for scholarship football signees who entered Clemson in 1996. Clemson was first in the nation in graduation rate among African-Americans (100 percent). Each of the top-six semester team GPAs have been recorded under Bowden.

His 2006 squad set numerous offensive records on its way to scoring 55 touchdowns and scoring nearly 33 points per game. Clemson had four First-Team All-ACC selections on offense, including 1,000-yard rusher James Davis, and the Tigers led the ACC in a majority of offensive categories.

Despite starting 7-1 and losing three of its last four regular-season games, Clemson lost three of its games by a total of five points, including single-point losses to Boston College and Maryland. However, the 2006 senior class became the first one in ACC history to beat Florida State three times in a four-year span.

The Tigers also had a landmark 31-7 victory over #13 Georgia Tech at Memorial Stadium. Clemson dominated the Yellow Jackets thanks in part to 332 combined rushing yards by James Davis and C.J. Spiller. That same weekend, ESPN College GameDay made its first-ever appearance in Tigertown.

In December of 2006, Bowden was named a semi-finalist for the Maxwell Club George Munger National Coach-of-the-Year Award. A big reason for his naming was the fact that Clemson overcame numerous injuries, including the loss of linebackers Anthony Waters and Tramaine Billie, to reach as high as #10 in the national polls.

Defensive end Gaines Adams was regarded as one of the top defensive linemen in the nation. He was named a finalist for the Bronko Nagurski Award and Ted Hendricks Award as well as earning unanimous first-team All-America honors. He was also named ACC Defensive Player-of-the-Year.

In 2005, Clemson had an 8-4 record, including a 3-2 mark against top-25 ranked teams. All four of the losses were by six points or less and by a total of 14 points. Two of those losses came in overtime, therefore the Tigers lost the four games by a combined five points at the end of regulation.

The 2005 team also won six of its last seven games, including a 19-10 win over Colorado in the Champs Sports Bowl. The Tigers had the best record among the 12 ACC teams over that time period.

The Tigers earned close victories to start the year against #17 Texas A&M and Maryland, then lost three nailbiters in a row. But just like the two previous years, Clemson won five of its last regular-season six games, including wins over #16 Florida State (eventual ACC Champion) and #19 South Carolina in the final two regular-season games. It was the first time since 1983 that Clemson defeated top-20 teams in consecutive games.

Clemson was in the top 25 in four national defensive rankings, including 11th in scoring defense. After the victory over Colorado in the Champs Sports Bowl, the Tigers were ranked #21 in the final Associated Press and USA Today polls. Clemson had three victories over top-20 ranked teams, the most in one season by a Clemson team since the 1989 season.

Both placekicker Jad Dean (Lou Groza Award) and cornerback Tye Hill (Jim Thorpe Award) were finalists for their respective awards in 2005. Hill was a Walter Camp First-Team All-American as well.

In four years at Clemson, Charlie Whitehurst became the most prolific signal-caller in school history. He set 46 Clemson records, including records for passing yards (9,665), completions (817), completion percentage (59.5), and touchdown passes (49). He directed Clemson to 25 wins as a starting quarterback, the second-most wins in school history.

Consistency in his approach is one reason Clemson went from a 1-4 start to bowl eligibility in 2004. It marked the first time since 1963 that a Tiger team had overcome such a deficit to finish with a winning season.

His 2004 Clemson team featured a defense that was 11th in the nation in pass efficiency defense. The unit had 42 sacks to finish in the top 10 in the nation. Leroy Hill was named the ACC Defensive Player-of-the-Year and a Third-Team Associated Press All-American. Cornerback Justin Miller was a semifinalist for the Jim Thorpe Award and was a second-team All-American as a kick returner. Wide receiver Airese Currie led the ACC in receptions and receiving yards.

Clemson played a complete game at #10 Miami (FL) on November 6, 2004 and defeated the Hurricanes in the Orange Bowl by a score of 24-17 in overtime. It was the second overtime win of the season for the Tigers, who are 4-2 in extra-session games under Bowden.

Clemson overcame a 14-point halftime deficit, not to mention overcoming a fourth-quarter deficit, a rarity against Miami. The Hurricanes had been 174-2 when leading going into the fourth quarter since 1985.

The win over Miami gave Bowden and the Tigers three wins over top-10 programs in a 13-game span, something that had been done at Clemson just once previously (1981 National Championship team). All three of those programs (Florida State, Tennessee, Miami) have won the national championship within the last decade.

Over the last four seasons, Bowden has won nine games over coaches who have won the national title (Bobby Bowden (three times), Phillip Fulmer, Larry Coker, Holtz (twice), Spurrier, and Howard Schnellenberger). These big wins have stimulated interest in the program. The Tigers averaged 81,500 fans per home game in 2006, which ranked 14th in the nation. Clemson has finished in the top 20 in home football attendance each of the eight seasons Bowden has been at Clemson, and six of the top-10 average attendance seasons have come during his tenure.

With Clemson's selection to the 2004 Peach Bowl, Bowden became the first head coach in Clemson and ACC history to take a team to a bowl game in each of his first five seasons. In fact, no coach had ever done so more than twice to open his career at Clemson. Under Bowden's direction, Clemson had also appeared in the Peach Bowl in 1999, the Gator Bowl in 2000, the 2001 Humanitarian Bowl, the 2002 Tangerine Bowl, the 2004 Peach Bowl, and the 2005 Champs Sports Bowl prior to its invitation to the 2006 Music City Bowl.

The 2004 Peach Bowl appearance meant that it was the first time since the senior class of 1991 that Clemson went to a bowl game five consecutive years. Clemson's red-shirt seniors of 2003 were the first group he recruited, so it is an indication of the firm foundation his first group set. In December of 2003, Bowden cemented his place at Clemson by signing a seven-year contract, which will go through 2010.

The 2003 season was a breakthrough year in many ways. Clemson earned its highest-ever victory over a ranked team with a 26-10 win over #3 Florida State. The Tigers also defeated #24 Virginia in a thrilling overtime contest. The 39-3 victory over a bowl-bound Georgia Tech team was Clemson's largest victory margin in the series since 1900 as well.

The 2003 victory over Florida State, Clemson's first in 12 tries since the Seminoles joined the ACC, was the beginning of a four-game winning streak to close the season. In those four games, Clemson outscored its opponents 156-48, an average score of 39-12. Clemson defeated arch-rival South Carolina in Columbia by a score of 63-17. It was the most points ever scored by a team in the 101-game series and the Tigers' largest victory margin in the series since 1900.

The season concluded with a 27-14 win over #6 Tennessee, the highest-ranked team Clemson has defeated in a bowl game since 1981, when the Tigers defeated #4 Nebraska in the Orange Bowl to claim the National Championship. As a result, Clemson finished the season with nine wins and a #22 final national ranking.

Over the final four games of the season, Bowden defeated two coaches (Bobby Bowden, Holtz) who had already earned 200 wins to become the first coach in NCAA history to beat a pair of 200-game winners in a month's time. He also registered wins over three coaches (Bowden, Holtz, Fulmer) who had previously won a national title.

The 2002 season included victories over bowl teams Georgia Tech and Wake Forest, and a third victory in four years over arch-rival South Carolina. Clemson gained 434 yards of total offense in the 27-20 win over the Gamecocks, the most yards against Holtz's defense all season.

The 2002 Clemson defense featured two of the top 21 players in the nation in terms of interceptions per game. Miller had eight interceptions, best among all freshmen nationally, and Brian Mance had six in an All-America season. The defense was one of the most improved units in the ACC and ranked in the top 10 in the nation in interceptions (21).

Clemson had another record-setting season in 2001, a season that culminated with a Humanitarian Bowl victory over Louisiana Tech. Clemson set school records for points scored, touchdowns, and total offense in a bowl game in the victory.

The 2001 season demonstrated Bowden's ability to win in the long run, as he had the second-youngest "two-deep" in the ACC. Thirty-four of his top 44 players were underclassmen. Only Duke had a younger group of top 44 players. Fourteen different freshmen saw action in 2001, including 10 who played in at least 10 games.

Bowden has a 60-38 record (.612) as the Tigers' head coach and is 78-42 (.650) overall. He has recorded that ledger against a difficult schedule. In his first year, Clemson's schedule was ranked in the top 10 in the nation. In 2001, his team defeated five teams that finished with a winning record, tied for the third-highest single-season figure in school history. One of the victories was a 47-44 overtime triumph at #9 Georgia Tech. It was the highest-ranked road win in 20 years for the Clemson program. In 2003 and 2004, Clemson's schedule strength once again ranked in the top 25 by the Sagarin rating. The 2005 team faced five top-25 teams in the regular season, a first in school history.

When Bowden came to Clemson in 1998, he inherited a team with a 3-8 record. By late October of 2000, just 14 months after his first game, Clemson was ranked #3 in the nation in the USA Today poll after an 8-0 start. That ranking was the highest for the program in 16 years. The final #14 ranking in that same poll was the highest final listing for the program since the 1990 season.

Making a swift improvement is nothing new for Bowden. In 1997, he took over a 4-7 Tulane program and brought the Green Wave to a 7-4 mark in his first year. In 1998, the improvement continued with an 11-0 regular season and #7 national ranking. In 1999, Bowden elevated the Tigers from 3-8 to a bowl game and a 6-6 final record. The 2000 Tigers concluded the season with a 9-3 record, their highest win total since 1993.

Considerable improvement is a common phrase for Bowden-coached teams. In each of his first four years he coached at the Division I level, his team showed at least a three-win improvement over the previous year, believed to be a first in Division I history. Bowden is just the third coach in history to bring the Tigers to a three-win improvement in consecutive years and was one of just two Division I coaches to do it over the 1999 and 2000 seasons.

In 2000 and 2001, his dynamic offense produced a Heisman Trophy contender in quarterback Woodrow Dantzler, who placed his name next to 52 school records. In 2001, Dantzler became the first quarterback in Division I history to accumulate 2,000 yards passing and 1,000 yards rushing in a single season. Dantzler was named a semifinalist for the Davey O'Brien Award in 2000 and 2001.

Center Kyle Young was a finalist for the Rimington Award in 2000 and 2001, and won the ACC's Jim Tatum Award, presented to the league's top student-athlete. He was one of eight players nationally to receive a National Football Foundation Scholarship and became just the second offensive lineman in college football history to become a three-time first-team Academic All-American. Linebacker Chad Carson also performed well in the classroom and on the gridiron. He and Young were first-team Academic All-American selections in 2000 and 2001.

Bowden's second Clemson team was one of the most decorated in history. Six different Tigers were finalists or semifinalist for national position awards, including linebacker Keith Adams, who was one of three finalists for the Butkus Award.

When Bowden arrived at Clemson, he had one simple goal - improvement. Bowden warned Tiger supporters that Clemson was unlikely to be a bowl participant in 1999, but his main focus was to improve. Bowden's goal of improvement was reached, and he was happy to be wrong about his preseason prediction, as the Tigers were invited to the 1999 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl.

In 1999, Bowden accomplished a personal milestone that no Clemson coach had attained since 1981, the year the Tigers won the National Championship. He became the first Clemson coach since Ford to be named ACC Coach-of-the-Year.

Bowden led the Tigers to a 6-6 record and 5-3 mark in the ACC against the nation's seventh-toughest schedule according to the Sagarin rating. The Tigers finished tied for second with Georgia Tech and Virginia in the final ACC standings, a six-place improvement over the previous season, the greatest one-season jump in ACC history in league play.

The Tigers also made a four-game ACC-win improvement in 1999. It was just the fifth time in ACC history that a team made that big of a league victory jump. Bowden had taken over a team with a losing record and brought it to a bowl game in his first season, just the sixth coach in ACC history to accomplish that feat.

The Clemson program set or tied 41 school records in Bowden's first year, including 26 on offense. Ironically, Bowden's first Tulane team set or tied 26 offensive school records.

The improvements in the ACC standings were thanks in large part to an innovative offensive attack. The Clemson offense ended the season averaging 402.6 yards per game, nearly a 100-yard per game improvement over 1998. The Tigers scored 26.8 points per game in 1999 compared to 19.8 in 1998.

Under Bowden, Clemson continued its strong defensive tradition. With 47 sacks, Clemson was first in the ACC in that category for the second-straight season, and the final total established a school record. Three players (Adams - 15.5, Carson - 12.0, Robert Carswell - 10.8) all had nearly 11 tackles per game in 1999 to finish among the top-four tacklers in the league.

Adams, a sophomore that season, finished with 186 tackles, highest in the nation, and broke the Clemson single-season tackle record held by Anthony Simmons. They all contributed to the 17th-best pass efficiency defense in the nation, a unit that had 19 interceptions, ninth highest in the country.

Thanks to the wide-open offensive attack, several Clemson players made their presence felt in the national rankings and the Clemson record book. Junior wide receiver Rod Gardner became the school's first 1,000-yard receiver. Gardner had 80 receptions for 1,084 yards, Tiger single-season records in both areas. He was 17th in the nation in receptions per game, with a 6.6 mark. He had another 1,000-yard season in 2000 when he was a first-round draft choice of the Washington Redskins.

Four of Clemson's losses in 1999 came against teams ranked in the top 15 of the final Associated Press poll. Bowden Bowl I, the first-ever meeting between father and son head coaches in college football history, took place on October 23, 1999. Bowden faced his father Bobby's top-ranked Florida State team in Death Valley in front of a national television audience. The Tigers lost a tough battle to the eventual National Champions, 17-14, the closest margin of victory for the Seminoles and the fewest points they recorded all season by two touchdowns.

Making strong improvement in his first year with a program was nothing new for Bowden. In the two seasons he was the head coach at Tulane, Bowden took a team that had been 4-18 in the two years previous to his arrival, and emotionally and numerically reversed the team's fortunes with an 18-4 record, posted an 11-1 conference mark, and finished the 1998 season ranked #7 in the nation by both polls. Tulane and Tennessee were the only undefeated teams in college football in 1998.

His Tulane team averaged 39.7 points, 5.1 touchdowns, 463 yards of total offense, 270.5 yards passing, and 192.6 yards rushing. The Green Wave averaged 6.3 yards per play, and converted on third down 47 percent of the time. Some say the most telling statistic in terms of wins and losses along with the most telling statistic when it comes to coaching ability is turnover margin. They were fifth in the nation in turnover margin each of his seasons at Tulane.

It did not take Bowden long to put Tulane back on the college football landscape. In his first year, Tulane was picked last in the preseason polls of Conference USA. But he led the New Orleans-based school to a 7-4 record, a second-place conference standing with just one league loss, and set 33 school records in the process, including 26 on offense.

Tulane's accomplishments on offense were noteworthy in 1997, but its offensive numbers reached uncharted areas in 1998. Tulane stood as the only school in the nation that averaged over 300 yards per game passing and 200 yards per game rushing. The team was fourth in the nation in total offense (507.1 per game) and second in scoring (45.4 points per game).

The Green Wave scored 40 or more points in eight games in 1998, including each of the last seven games. In one game, the Green Wave scored 72 points and rolled up 704 yards of total offense. They converted 52 percent of their third-down opportunities for the season and had just 11 turnovers in over 800 plays. The 1998 season saw the program post a perfect 11-0 regular season under Bowden, its first perfect regular season since 1931. The Green Wave won Conference USA, its first league title since Tulane won the SEC in 1949. Bowden was named Conference USA Coach-of-the-Year.

His team ranked #7 in the final Associated Press poll and was a mainstay there from the third week of the season. Tulane had not been ranked at any time since 1979, and had not been ranked in a final poll since 1973. After Bowden accepted the job at Clemson, Tulane defeated Brigham Young in the Liberty Bowl.

A look to the list of coaches who had undefeated seasons in the 1990s shows two other men named Bowden. His father, Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden, had a perfect regular season in 1996 and 1999, while his brother Terry posted a perfect regular season in 1993. Obviously, the Bowdens are the first family of college coaching, and this "Wonder Years" environment had a lot to do with Tommy Bowden's decision to enter coaching.

The fatherly influence of a college coach who reached 300 career wins against his son in 1999, also had an influence on other members of the family. Bobby Bowden is the winningest coach in Division I history. Terry has been a head coach at Samford and Auburn, posting a 47-17-1 record at the latter. He also serves as a commentator for Westwood One's radio college football package.

Tommy Bowden began his college football experience as a walk-on wide receiver at West Virginia. He played for his father between 1973-75 and then for Frank Cignetti during the 1976 season.

As a junior, he caught 15 passes for 189 yards and one score. Bowden remained at West Virginia for the 1977 season and began his coaching career, serving as a graduate assistant on Cignetti's staff. His interest in coaching only became more intense after that first year as a graduate assistant. His father then hired him as a secondary coach at Florida State for the 1978 season.

That experience confirmed to Bowden that he was in a profession that would be his life's work. The Seminoles posted a 19-4 mark in his two seasons at Florida State.

In 1980, Bowden joined the staff at East Carolina, where he coached for the spring-practice session of 1980. That spring, he moved to Auburn and served as the Tigers' running backs coach for the 1980 season. Among the players he coached was James Brooks, who went on to a 13-year NFL career and is still second in Auburn history in rushing.

In 1981, Bowden returned to Tallahassee as the tight ends coach. In two more years at Florida State, the Seminoles posted a 15-8 mark. The 1982 team ranked #13 in the final poll, claimed a 9-3 record, and won a Gator Bowl championship.

From 1983-86, Bowden served under Steve Sloan at Duke as the quarterbacks coach, and was named coordinator in 1985. In 1984, he made his first trip to Death Valley as a coach. Among the players he tutored was future NFL player Anthony Dilweg.

After four years at Duke, Bowden became the wide receivers coach at Alabama under Bill Curry. It was there that Bowden refined his offensive coaching prowess under noted offensive mind Homer Smith, then the Tide offensive coordinator.

In 1990, Bowden returned to a coordinator role, serving as Kentucky's offensive coordinator and wide receivers coach. That year, he helped the Wildcats to their first upper division SEC finish since 1984. In 1991, Bowden joined Pat Dye at Auburn. He remained with the Auburn program for six years, his longest stint as a college assistant. During his tenure, Auburn had a combined record of 46-20-2, including a perfect 11-0 season in 1993. Auburn had four Associated Press top-25 seasons, including a #4 final ranking in 1993 and a #9 final ranking in 1994. The SEC Tigers were 20-1-1 in 1993-94 combined. Bowden worked under his brother Terry for his last four years at Auburn and the Tigers had a 36-9-1 record with both Bowdens on the coaching staff.

Born on July 10, 1954 in Birmingham, AL, Bowden is married to the former Linda Joan White, who he first met when the two were in school together at Morgantown (WV) High School. The couple has two children, Ryan (25), a 2004 Clemson graduate and currently a law student at Regent University, and Lauren (22), a senior at Clemson.
